THE contempt case which came before the Supreme Court yesterday, forms a somewhat | noticeable illustration of a principle, which it is to be regretted is at times acted upon by officials in Hongkong, namely, that of standing somewhat strictly upon their dignity. and taking very little pains to put people right, when they have inadvertently fallen into an error. It is due to the generality of the officials in this Colony, to say that this is fortunately not of very frequent occurrence, representative of the estate of Mrs. Crawford and it is fair to the gentleman specially concerned in the matter under notice, to say that It is not very often that he shows himsel lacking in a spirit of courtesy and willingness to do the best he can for those who are of his professional duties. We regret, however, that we cannot at all endorse the remarks which were made in the Supreme Court with reference to the propriety of Mr. DEANE's conduct in regard to the matter passing of the last examination, though under consideration.

It appears that Mr. Gaver, the Superintendent of the China Submarine Telegraph discharge on Monday fortnight. Company, was summoned upon a special jury in a case recently heard at the Supreme Court, and being compelled to leave the Colony on account of ill-health, he wrote to Mr. DEANE, from whom, in his capacity o Deputy Sheriff, he had received his summons. explaining the circumstance; and, not hear- might affect the action. ing anything from Mr. Deane in reply, he naturally concluded that the matter was duly disposed of. A mistake had, however, been Lordship would exercise his power to decide the made, masmuch as the letter should have been addressed to the Registrar of the Court instead of to Mr. DEANE; but the latter gentleman did not feel himself called upon to call Mr. Gavey's attention to the fact. It is not impossible that Mr. DEANE may have been in ignorance of this fact; but this, it may be fairly concluded, is very improbable, Agency, to show that where there was a general and so far as we can see, it is the only excuse that can be pleaded for his not pointing out the mistake. We cannot, therefore, see that that the policy in this case was entirely within he acted "very properly" in not calling at the power of the agent under those instructions, tention to it in one form or another; as it is but even if that were not so, he contended that always considered a fair, reasonable, and who only knew the general power of attorney courteous line of action, for a man when he shown him by the agent. Mr. Battles took a lease in Hongkong will be disposed to act fairly, reasonably, and courteously. It is sometimes his general agents, and transacted all his husilooked upon as quite justifiable to leave a man to make a mistake, if one is not absolutely called upon to prevent it; but ethics of this kind will never be acceptable to those who have a proper sense of what, to put the matter in a simple light, is due as from | holding Mr. Battles's moneys, of course never one man to another; and it is an error on the right side with all, but more especially. with public men, to be anxious to prevent an responsible to the Company for the premium. than any used for a vessel of a similar descripaccident or a blunder whetever there appears a likelihood of one occurring. Of course, this principle does not apply in cases where there is either an implied or declared under- payment. Without special reference to the above case, but as a matter to which attention is naturally called by it, we may be permitted. o suggest that gentlemen upon whom the public is so much dependent, and whose time is so pressingly occupied as the Superintendent and employes in the Telegraph offices, might reasonably be exempted from the onerous duty of serving upon juries. We understand that this course is adopted in Singapore, and there is quite as much reason for such being done here.

Five prisoners were flogged yesterday afternoon at British Kowloon, amongst whom was Lec-a-man, the escaped convict, and two others sentenced at the last sessions.

We hear that the consent of the trustees of St. John's Cathedral was given on Monday, to a happily-conceived plan for pleasantly inaugurating the re-opening of the nave after the repairs to the roof shall have been completed. It is proposed to hold a Choral Festival there on Easter Monday, the 14th instant, at 4 p.m., when the Cantata "Lauda Sion" (Mondelssohn) will be sung by as strong a body of voices asthe Colony can unster, including the members of the Choral Society and many others. The Cathedral will be open to all free, and there will be an offertory, the proceeds of which, we | believe, will go to the Cathedral fund. The first rehearsal for the festival will take place tomorrow, at 9 p.m., at the City Hall.

IMPORTANT NAUTICAL CASE (N. C. Daily News, March 27th.) POLICE COURT, SHANGHAI. 26th March.

Before R. A. MOWAT, Esq.

The Chief Judge and H. B. M. Consul were R. v T. COLLEDGE. Master of British barque

Kirkland. The charge was as follows:-"You have this day been charged before this Court, for that you did on leaving Sunderland. on the 29th August, 1872, bound on a voyage to Shanghai, neglect to carry on board the said ressel a sufficient quantity of sugar calculated to last the said voyage, or that you did neglect to serve out the same to the crew of the said yessel during a part of the said voyage, and for that you did fail during the said voyage to serve out to the said crew medicines, medical stores. and antiscorbutics; in contradiction to the 5th paragraph of the 4th section of Merchant Shipping Act of 18:7."

His Worship asked defendant if this was so or not? Defendant—It is not so.

W. H. Tapp, who appeared on the part of H.B.M.'s Consul, in support of the charge, sworn, stated :- I am shipping clerk at H.B.M. Consulate. I had better first read to your Worship the following letter, signed by six of

"GENERAL HOSPITAL, " March 18th, 1873. "To H.B.M. Consul, -The treatment we had on board of our ship during the passage out to Shanghai, I think was not right at all, and most all the crew has been laid up with the Scurvy during the passage and us been short of Provisions; we wish Dear Sir for you to take it into your hands and see into the case for us all. "T. F. B. HANNINGTON, " H. Peaeson. "J. REAH.

"D. HOLBURN, "F. Bullen & M. Anderson." On that letter, in accordance with the Act, H.B.M.'s Consul issued an order for Dr. Johnson and myself to examine into the matter. We did so, and made the following report:-

"SHANGHAI, March 28th, 1873. "Sir,-We have the bonor to inform you that, iny held an enquiry on board the British Barque Kirkland, Off. No. 26,199, regarding the oircumstances which led to an outbreak of scurvy on board that vessel during her voyage from Sunderland to Shangbai, and we are of opinion that the disease originated from the following causes: -The lengthened voyage of nearly seven months, most of which time the crew were on ealt provisions, the insufficient supply of sugar, the want of preserved vegetables and meat, the inferior quality of the biscuit, the deficient sanitary arrangement in the houses where the crew were berthed, and the continual exposure of their bedding and clothing to wet, during heavy "On the first appearance of the outbreak of the disease, it appears that instead of doubling the allowance of lime juice, only the usua quantity was served out, and even that could not be drunk, owing shortly after to the supply of sugar being exhausted. In addition to this. it appears that the allowance of sait provisions was stopped and no preserved meat given instead. "Preserved meat was issued to the crew once week, during the voyage, up to the time the disease first made its appearance, when the supply of all meat was stopped by the Master, and the crew were compelled to live on biscuit flour, ten and coffee, without sugar, notwith-

but the disinfecting fluids, which should have been used, were unopened. "There were also about 10 lbs. of preserved compressed vegetables, and 48lbs. of preserved potatoes, both of which had not been used at all, the latter having, in the meantime, become

"We are further of opinion that it was through the gross neglect of the Master, Teasdale Colledge, that the scurvy assumed such a formidable state; and that the disease might have been arrested by the timely issue of a double allowance of lime juice, and a proper supply of sugar, by a sufficient allowance of the preserved meate, vegetables, and stimulants, with which the ship was amply supplied, by due attention to cleapliness throughout the ship, and by the use of the disinfecting fluide. "We have no liesitation in condemning the The Asiatic Society held a meeting on the biscuit and the preserved potatoes, as unfit for "" We have the honor to be, Sir, .

AFTER THE FIRE. T OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. While far along the eastern sky I saw the flags of Havoc fly, As if his forces would assault The sovereign of the starry vault, And hurl Him back the burning rain That scared the cities of the plain, L rend na on a orimana pago--

The words of Israel's sceptered sage :--F r riches make them wings, and they Do as an eagle fly away.

O vision of that sleepless night, What has shall paint the mooking light That burned and stained the orient skies Where peaceful morning loves to rise, As if the sun had lost his way And dawned to make a second day,-Above how red with fiery glow. How dark to those it woke below!

On roof and wall, on dome and spire, Flashed the false jewels of the fire; Get with her belt of glittering panes. And erowned with starry-yleaming vance; Our northern queen in glory shone With new-born splendors not her own And stood, transfigured in our eyes, A victim decked for sacrifice !

The aloud etill hovers overhead. And still the midnight sky is red: As the lost wanderer strays alone In seek the place he called his own, His devious footprints andly tell tiow changed the pathways known so well; The scene, how new! The tale how old. Ere yet the ashes have grown cold!

Again I read the words that come-Writ in the rubijo of the flume: Howe'er we trust to mortal things. Each bath its pair of folded wings; Though long their terrors rest unspread Their fatal plumes are never shed; At last, at last, they stretch in flight And blot the day and blast the night!

Hope, only hope, of all that clings Around us, never spreads her wings: Lowe, though he break his earthly chain, Still whispers he will come again; But Faith, that sours to seek the sky, Shall teach our hall-fledged sonls to fly, And find, beyond the smoke and flame, The cloudless azure whence they came ! THE ART OF ALMS.

The way the English poor people are helped. I am told, is the worst. They never teach them what to do in order to help themselves. I made a soup to-day for one of my poor friends-yes, borrowed her apron and made it, and went out with her to buy the vegetables first; and I reckon it is better than if I had put a napoleon into her hand. make her my friend. One day I find the adorning the sacred mount. MR. RUSKIN'S PECULIARITIES. It is one of Ruskin's whimsical notions the modern modes of travel and conveyance by sea and land are the invention of the arch enomy of mankind. To the same malignant source he attributes also every sort of steamdriven machinery. Like our own erratic Thoreau, he disbelieves in modern civilisation and especially in everything which the wor calls "progress." With a sincerity unusua in extremists of this order, be tries to carry his theory into practice. He will never journey by coach or railway where a horse can carry him, nor by steamboat when he can go by sail ing vessel. From the little Utopia which h hopes to build up in England, to be a pattern to the age, and the beginning of a new era all the abominations of modern invention are to be banished. Steam-engines will give place to the motive powers ordained by Heaven from the foundation of the world-wind and water and the muscular force of man and beast. Hand-work shall there resume its old supre macy, and labour-saving machines shall be unknown. Mills driven by wind or water shall grind the grain, the scythe and sickle, the horse or ox drawn plough, and the old-fashioned flail shall banish all those inventions which have raised agriculture from a drudgery to a science. If the Utopians have anything to sell, they will take it to market in horse-carts or boats. In short, Mr. Ruskin, who has had the misfortune to be borne some hundreds of years too late, would turn the world backward and upside down, undo centuries of civilisation and progress, and re-establish an order of things from which humanity has been struggling away through must be added, in order to arrive at the area generations of thought, invention, and dis walled in by Nehemiah, after the return covery .- From " Locomotion Past and Present," in Harper's New Monthly Magazine.

But to form any idea of the probable authenticity of the monkish sites, we must understand the topography of Jerusalem under the Idumean kings. Nor can we halt in the investigation till we have traced the marks of the devastations wrought by the Romans and by the Chaldeans; and have thus attained some idea of the successive states of the city under its three native or naturalised dynasties. The city of Jerusalem attained its utmost extent under the third, or Idamean, dynasty of the kings of Judea. In splendour and architectural beauty, if not in colossal grandeur, the buildings of Herod the Great rivalled those of Solomon, his most famous predecessor. The polished ashlar work of the Roman and Grecian temples was introduced by Herod, as is shown by the remains of his works at Cesarea. The drafted megalithic style of Solomon was restored by Agrippa, the last king. The area within the walls of the present city is calculated by Mr. Besant, from Ordnance data, to cover 209 acres of ground, of which thirty-five are occupied by the Noble Sanctuary. To this
